

The Environmental Challenge International

...a student team competition

ROLE PLAYERS

During the conference you will be required to speak with role players involved with the problem. These role players will be project proponent(s), regulators, politicians, activists and other expected or unexpected individuals critical to creating a solution to the problem. Role players will offer insight and clarify any additional questions each team may have in relation to the problem.

During the ECi Orientation a sign-up sheet will be available for interviews with these individuals but they may be approached at any time during the conference. Please use professionalism during all business meetings, technical and plenary sessions, and have fun while remembering your environment. Interviews will occur at the Student Welcome Booth.

Role players in the problem will be identified, with real names and pictures, in the ECi packet picked up at The Student Welcome Booth upon registration and will also be introduced at the initial meeting. Below is a list of the role players that each team should consider when formulating your proposal, poster and final solution.
